

“I’ve learned more from a couple of hours talking with the community than I did in days of reading and research beforehand.”

Communities of Practice help bring people together.